I just got a heads up about your blog. I have read it through and through. It makes me sad to hear your side of the story in such detail. I no longer have contact with Tiffany. In fact, the last time I spoke with her was during your court case. I did ask her to just have the restraining order removed so you could both move on. Anyhow, I'd like to talk to you "off the record." I don't care if you write about it, I just would prefer my name not be used. I think some of the things I recall might be helpful to your purging/healing process. I hope so anyways. Reading your blog and remembering specific conversations has allowed me to put 2 & 2 together in a sense. They say hindsight is 20/20. Perhaps there is truth to that after all. And from one poet to another, are you writing again now? I hope ! so. Your talent is really astounding. I remember the poem you sent my daughters long ago on myspace. You know, at the time I just wanted to stay "out of it" completely. I hate conflict. I didn't know how far this whole situation would go and I have this deeply engrained distrust of the law and the courts and avoid them at all cost. Funny that "anonymous" had a brother falsely implicated too. It makes me wonder, how common is this? Because my own brother had his girlfriend and mother of his child accuse him of rape a few years ago. He went to prison for it even though she later recanted her lie, but the case was already in the courts hands and they wouldn't accept her testimony. She truly ruined his life. I guess you were spot on when you wrote about friends and loyalty. You want (I want) to believe your (my) friends. It's a lot easier to believe your friends than someone you don't really know. Thank you for granting me that concession in your writing. Did I really ! talk about panties??? I don't even remember that, surely I did! n't star t our conversation of that way, christ. Well if you'd like to have coffee and talk a bit it's on me. I don't know if what I have to say will help or not. I hope it will. I once told you I was a straight shooter and it's true. I don't lie or bend the truth, although I do avoid conflict. And that's all I ever thought this was, conflict and a whole lot of misunderstanding. Well, maybe I can fill in some blanks at this point, I guess that's all I can do (if you even want our care to hear what I have to say at this point). If you think it will help let me know, if not that's fine too. I just figured I'd be direct instead of making a "knee jerk" comment (I'm pretty sure that was not carlotta by the way, it just doesn't seem like her style). I'd like to think I'm a little more open minded than that. I donated what I could to Nona, I didn't add my name because I want sure you would accept it from me. What is the timeframe on the surgery? I ask because I have a whole lot of animal !/dog lovers and rescues on my facebook account. We just rescued and secured a home for a wonderful female pitbull someone dumped in my yard. I'd like to link to your donation page. I know a lot of these folks will help and no animal should suffer no matter what has transpired in our past. Well now I'm beginning to ramble, I wish you both healing and the best. Let me know if you are ever up for tea or coffee and a chat. I can't promise IH will say all the things you might wish to hear, but I can promise to be truthful. ~ jen
